

Aviation and Aerospace

Marsh has more than 300 aerospace specialists providing tailor-made insurance solutions worldwide, with dedicated expertise in Asia Pacific to deliver a broad range of risks and insurance solutions.

Marsh's dedicated local professionals handle some of the largest and most complex aviation and aerospace risks. This combination of global strength and local know-how has enabled Marsh to become the leading insurance broker and risk specialist for this sector in the Asia Pacific region.

Globally, our Aviation and Aerospace brokers place a greater volume of premiums into the markets than any other company. This volume and the depth of our market relationships, coupled with our specialist industry expertise, deliver programs with the optimum balance of cost, coverage and financial security for our clients.

Marsh in Asia Pacific provides expertise in all disciplines of aerospace risk and insurance, including marketing, technical and advisory, claims, reinsurance, risk consulting and training.

Our specialist services include:

- Identifying trends affecting the industry and emerging risk issues
- Working with clients to help them evaluate and effectively manage their risk
- Sharing best practices by analysing indemnity limits, claims trends and retention levels across the industry
- Strengthening relationships and understanding with insurers
- Designing insurance programs and service packages to suit each client and their specific needs at an advantageous rate

Marsh handles thousands of aviation insurance claims for Asia Pacific clients annually and is renowned for its professional handling of major and minor claims in the best interests of clients. We seek at all times to avoid unnecessary litigation and minimise the adverse financial and reputation aspects of any claim for our clients.
